SET DATE FOR SEADLUND TO DIE IN CHAIR

Execution Is Stayed Automatically From April 19

Chicago, March 19.—(AP)—John Henry Seadlund, 27-year-old Minnesota mechanic, today was sentenced to die in the electric chair April 19 for kidnapping Charles S. Ross, 72-year-old retired greeting card manufacturer.

Execution of the sentence was stayed automatically, however, until May 19 at the earliest when Federal Judge John P. Barnes granted Defense Attorneys Floyd Thompson and Frederic Burnham 60 days in which to effect an appeal.

Federal Judge John P. Barnes passed sentence after denying motions of Defense Attorneys Frederic Burnham and Floyd Thompson for a new trial and arrest of judgment.

Seadlund, manacled to two deputy marshals, was then led before the bench at the direction of the court.

Nothing to Say
"Have you anything to say before sentence is pronounced?" Judge Barnes asked the defendant.

"No," Seadlund answered in a weak voice, shaking his head.

Judge Barnes then read the formal sentence directing that Seadlund be held in the custody of the United States marshal and that "on the 19th day of April the defendant shall be put to death by electrocution."

Apparently unmoved by his fate, Seadlund, still wearing the blue suit he wore throughout the trial, chatted with his counsel for several minutes after the court's pronouncement. He showed no emotion.

Holds Law Valid
In denying the motion for a new trial Judge Barnes said he did not believe there were any prejudicial errors in the trial record. He likewise overruled the defense contention that the Lindbergh law, under which Seadlund was sentenced, was unconstitutional.

Seadlund pleaded guilty to kidnapping Ross Sept. 25 for $50,000 ransom. Ross and Seadlund's confederate, James Atwood Gray, were slain later at the kidnaper's cave hideout near Spooner, Wis.

The jury which doomed Seadlund to the electric chair was not called upon to determine his guilt or innocence. Its only charge was to fix his punishment, either by death or a prison sentence.

Order Posting Co. Highways Removed
The order posting the roads on the Lee county highway system which has been in effect for the past few weeks, was ordered removed by County Superintendent of Highways Fred W. Leake today and highway commissioners of the various townships were removing the load limit signs.

Superintendent Leake stated today that the frost was out of the ground and rains early in the week had served to settle the road surfaces to the extent that they may again be opened to regular travel. He indicated that there had been some violations of the load limit rule, but that the majority of motorists and truckers had co-operated in keeping the county highways in a travelable condition.

Relic Civic Shrine
Chicago, March 19.—(AP)—Chicago's old water tower on Michigan Boulevard will become a civic shrine with a perpetual flame burning within.

An appropriation of $14,000 was authorized by the city council yesterday to keep the flame burning by gas.

The water tower is a relic of the great fire.

Franklin Grove Physician Gets Week's Check for Courtesy

A car bearing 1938 license number 4427, which showed special consideration for pedestrians, is awarded this week's $5 award for courteous and careful driving. The driver proved to be Dr. F. M. Banker of Franklin Grove, who was driving his sedan on First Street in Dixon this morning about 11 o'clock and at the intersection of First and Hennepin there were pedestrians who were about to cross the street and the Franklin Grove driver politely stopped his car and let the pedestrians pass unhurriedly.

The Chicago Motor Club and the Dixon Evening Telegraph are conducting the campaign for a duration of twelve weeks.

Too many drivers seem to feel that the streets are all theirs and that pedestrians have no right of way whatever. That type of driver who thinks that all he is required to do is to blow his horn to get people out of his way has no business driving a car. Watch your driving manners. It may save a serious accident.

William Lipp Rites Held in Sterling
William Lipp, a former baseball player, and about a quarter of a century ago a member of the publishing firm of Stuckey & Lipp of this city, dropped dead in a Chicago restaurant Wednesday. Funeral services were held in Sterling this afternoon with burial in Riverside cemetery there. Mr. Lipp is survived by an only sister, Miss Bertha Lipp, an attendant at the Dixon state hospital.

Two Bills

Springfield, Ill., March 19.—(AP)—Richard J. Lyons, campaigning for senator on the Republican county chairman's ticket, showed his audience here two congressional bills.

"This one has 383 pages," shouted the state representative from Libertyville. "It's the new tax bill."

"This one has on paragraph," he continued, holding up a sheet of paper. "It appropriates $225,000,000."

Lyons and his associates spoke here last night in a hotel lobby rally. Their downstate tour will end next week.

While Lyons denounced heavy taxes, Senator Simon E. Lantz of Congerville, running for Congressman-at-large, said Democratic candidates promising unqualified support of President Roosevelt are promoting "one-man government."

BARCELONA NOT COWED BY AWFUL AERIAL ATTACKS

22,000 Volunteers Being Raised To Fight Rebels

Barcelona, March 19.—(AP)—This capital of government Spain today gave evidence that its determination to fight on has survived two days of the most terrible air raids of the civil war.

United Socialist youth organizations called for two divisions of youths totalling 22,000 volunteers to be formed within 10 days.

The Communist newspaper organ appealed to youths "who do not want to be enslaved" and who "are willing to heroic deeds" to join the ranks.

Two great labor syndicates in their first really united action urged workers to stay at their jobs in factories.

Rescue workers continued to dig for victims in debris of buildings shattered by insurgent raids which continued from late Wednesday until last night.

The highest estimates of dead in this series of attacks were about 1,300. Authorities said half that number of bodies had been taken from the ruins. They said they were unable to estimate how many still were buried. More than 2,000 wounded were counted.

Camp In Subways
Thousands refused to leave the shelter of the subways, where they camped. Thousands more stayed in the suburbs, to which they had fled.

Insurgent authorities announced that the terrible bombings of Barcelona were justified by the discovery of military objectives in the heart of the city.

(Several important buildings were listed as storage places for war materials.)

(France and Britain continued efforts to prevail on the insurgent command to halt the bombings.)

The French embassy informed the British foreign office that France apart from asking the Vatican yesterday to use its influence, had sent a strong protest to the insurgent government of Generalissimo Francisco Franco. Britain was urged to do the same.

France also forwarded to London a documented list of 442 German and Italian planes which she said were in Franco's air force.

Soviet Ends Hunt For Polar Fliers
Fairbanks, Alaska, March 9.—(AP)—A fruitless seven-month hunt from Alaska for the six missing Russian transpolar fliers ended today. The Soviet government indicated any further search would be carried on from the Russian side of the Arctic.

Wireless and weather reporting systems were being dismantled and Sir George Hubert Wilkins' Akiavik, N. W. T., base was abandoned. Wilkins and his party flew yesterday to Edmonton, Alta., en route to New York. Wilkins was employed by the Soviet government for the search.

Michael B. Bellakov, Soviet representative here, said he was returning to Washington, D. C.

"CHISELLER" IN LEVINE KIDNAP CASE ARRESTED

New Jersey Youth Held as Writer of Extortion Letters

BULLETIN

Washington, March 19.—(AP)—Justice department officials said today the arrest of Thomas Jasosky in Newark, N. J., was a minor one and not a solution of the Peter Levine kidnapping case.

The officials said that Jasosky had written extortion notes to the youth's parents in an effort "to chisel in" the case.

Newark, N. J., March 19.—(AP)—A youth described as Stanley Thomas Jasosky, 19, of Newark, was held in $25,000 bail today by United States Commissioner Holland on a charge of attempted extortion in connection with the kidnapping of 12-year-old Peter Levine of New Rochelle, N. Y.

After arraignment, Jasosky, who was arrested by Newark detectives and agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, was removed to the Hudson county jail in Jersey City.

The complaint charges Jasosky with writing six letters demanding $30,000 from Peter Levine's father, Murray Levine, for the return of his young son. Young Levine vanished from New Rochelle on February 24.

Newark Detective Peter LaBarga said Jasosky "confessed writing the six letters." The detective said Jasosky denied participating in the kidnapping but declared "he knew who did it."

Agent Non-committal
All but one of the letters, dated March 2, 3, 7, 9, 13 and 17, were addressed to the elder Levine's home in New Rochelle. The March 3 missive was addressed to the attorneys.

MRS. EDWARD FANE DIED HERE TODAY AT SISTER'S HOME

Mrs. Edward Fane passed away this morning at 12:15 at the home of her sister, Mrs. Allen Fane, 922 Woodlawn street. Although she had been in poor health for many years, her last illness dated from New Year's day when she was stricken while preparing dinner. Her many friends will recall the very serious burns which she received as the result of a gasoline stove explosion while on an outing a few years ago, from which she made a miraculous recovery after weeks of intense suffering.

She was united in marriage to Edward T. Fane of this city, Sept. 16, 1913, and although no children were born to the union, she took a particular pride and joy in ministering to her sister's children and providing for them in precisely the same way as a mother. Through all her sickness she never complained and she maintained consciousness until the end. She leaves to mourn her passing her parents, one brother, Thomas Hayes of Washington, D. C., and a sister, Mrs. Allen Fane of this city. Her husband preceded her in death, Sept. 6, 1931.

Corla Allen Hayes was born in Pleasant Hill, Mo. Sept. 7, 1890 and received her education in the public schools at Kansas City, Mo. She came to Dixon just prior to her marriage and had resided here since. Funeral services will be held at the residence Monday morning at 9 o'clock and at St. Patrick's Catholic church at 9:30. Rev. Fr. T. L. Walsh officiating. Interment will be made in Oakwood.

Separate Maintenance Is Granted in Court

Mrs. Anna Brierton was granted separate maintenance from Sylvester Brierton, Palmyra township, at a hearing conducted before Judge Harry Edwards in the circuit court this morning. The plaintiff was granted the custody of two minor children and the court ordered that Brierton pay the sum of $65 monthly for their support, until the further order of the court. An injunction was issued by Judge Edwards restraining Brierton from selling, mortgaging or otherwise disposing of his property. State's Attorney Edward Jones and Attorney H. C. Warner appeared for Mrs. Brierton and Attorney Robert Besse of Sterling for the defendant.

Station Attendants Receive Bad Checks

Two gas station attendants, Lee Rintoul and G. L. Buzzard, have reported to Chief of Police J. D. Van Bibber, of the operations of a man and woman, driving an old car bearing Iowa license plates, who passed worthless checks at the two stations. Counter checks from one of the local banks made out in the sums of $6.10 and $7.10 to Harry Douglas and signed by Mrs. Gertrude B. Youngs, for painting and decorating, were presented at the gas stations in payment for small amounts of gas and oil.

Increased Traffic in Peoria Avenue Brings Regulation of Parking

Closing of Galena Ave. Bridge Cause of Congestion

At the request of the Lee County Tavern Owners Association, which two weeks ago petitioned the city council to limit the number of retail alcoholic liquor places of business in Dixon to 20, the commission last evening unanimously concurred in the request by adding an amendment to the present liquor ordinance, which was passed in 1935. One week after presentation of the petition, the committee again visited the council and urged action on the measure. No limit was placed on the number of beer licenses under the amendment and the license fees remained as in the past.

Commissioner Cal G. Tyler presented an ordinance which was passed by the unanimous vote of the council, restricting traffic on certain streets in the city, which has been greatly increased by the closing of the Galena avenue bridge. The measure being an emergency ordinance, becomes effective immediately and prohibits parking as follows:

"No Parking" Areas
On the east and west sides of Hennepin avenue for a distance of 30 feet south from the intersection of Hennepin avenue and River street;

On the south side of River street for a distance of 130 feet west from the intersection of River street and Hennepin avenue;

On the east side of North Peoria avenue for a distance of 30 feet south from the intersection of Peoria and Everett street;

On the west side of North Peoria avenue for a distance of 100 feet south from the intersection of North Peoria and Everett street;

On the south side of Everett street for a distance of 100 feet westerly from the intersection of Everett street and North Peoria avenue.

The penalty for the first offense is fixed at a $2 minimum fine and a maximum fine of $100, but upon second or subsequent occasions, the amount of fine is from $5 to $200.

Street Improvement
Commissioner Tyler stated to the council that ordinance was necessary for the safety of automobile traffic and in his opinion was a very reasonable measure. Mayor Slothower corroborated the commissioner of public health and safety stating that he had recently observed traffic on North Peoria avenue for 30 minutes and was satisfied that additional regulation was necessary.

A resolution was adopted by the council providing for the improvement of Chamberlain street from Galena avenue east to the city limits with a bituminous surface, 32 feet in width. The work is to be done during the summer, the estimated cost of the improvement being $4,400 which is to be furnished from the city's motor fuel tax refund. The resolution provides that the improvement will be done by contract.

Two bids were read by Mayor Slothower for the purchase of the city's garbage beginning April 1 and continuing until Nov. 1, as follows: Clarence Martin, $302, and Toronto, March 19.—(Canadian Press)—Justice W. E. Middleton of the Ontario supreme court ruled today that the $500,000 Charles Vance Millar "stork derby" estate be divided among four Toronto mothers.

The judge named Mrs. Annie Smith, Mrs. Kathleen Nagle, Mrs. Isabel MacLean and Mrs. Alice Timleck to share the estate left by the eccentric Toronto lawyer to the mother bearing the most children in the 10 years following his death, Oct. 31, 1926.

Applications for Corn Loans Must Be Made Before March 26

The closing date on which loans may be secured from the commodity credit corporation on sealed corn is March 31. This means that all loans which are to be made direct through or discounted to the commodity credit corporation must be dated not later than March 31.

Before these loans can be made it is necessary that the corn be sealed, a sample taken and the result of the sample test returned to the county agricultural conservation office. This requires about five days, so all requests for sealing must be in the county agricultural conservation office by March 26.

Any person wishing to secure a loan must apply to the county office not later than the 26th of March.

During the period of the 1937 crop corn loan, there has been a total of 175 loans through the commodity credit corporation and many through private loaning agencies. Those through the private loaning agencies are those who were not eligible to secure government loans. A total of 350,000 bushels of corn was sealed in Lee county.

LITHUANIANS ACCEPT POLE TERMS TODAY

Action Has Averted War; Thousands of Troops on Border

Warsaw, March 19.—(AP)—War apparently was averted between Poland and Lithuania today through the unconditional acceptance by Lithuania of all Polish demands.

The Lithuanian minister of Tallinn, Estonia, handed his government's reply to the Polish minister at noon.

News that there would be no war between the two Baltic neighbors caused great satisfaction in Warsaw.

The Polish government determined to do nothing that would humiliate Lithuania.

It was said in official quarters that Lithuania's acceptance of Polish terms was regarded not as submission to an ultimatum but as a gesture of moderation and good will.

Poland will make every effort to have negotiations run smoothly, it was said.

Day of Decision
A majority of Polish newspapers appeared this morning with screaming headlines which declared: "The day will decide whether we have peace or war."

The issue depended upon action of the Lithuanian Diet on a Polish ultimatum which demanded appeasement of a series of grievances dating back 18 years.

The National Radicals circulated leaflets in the streets declaring, "Lithuania must disappear from the European map."

Runs on Polish banks and anti-Jewish street fights began as a development of high anxiety over the possibility of war.

The current dispute was brought to a head by the killing of a Polish border guard March 11.

Among Polish demands were renunciation of Wilno, which Poland took in 1920, as the capital of Lithuania; exchange of diplomatic representatives; commercial and customs accords; an open border to permit rail, postal and telegraphic communications; an agreement respecting minorities in each other's territory, and redress for the frontier incident of March 11.

Mobs Disappointed
Warsaw mobs, which yesterday clamored for war vented disappointment over the peaceful settlement by setbacks against Jews. Large crowds tried to break into Warsaw's Ghetto, blocked by a ring of police around the district.

On their way to the Ghetto, the yelling demonstrators stoned the windows of Jewish shops. An undetermined number of Jews were injured. No fatalities were reported, but one Jew suffered serious knife wounds.

The anti-semitic outbreaks mingled with country-wide jubilation over Polish victory in the showdown.

Celebrations here found a climax in a big mass meeting in Pilsudski Square—the same place where two days ago a throng had yelled "On to Kaunas!"

Thanksgiving services were arranged by all churches for tomorrow.

Kaunas, Lithuania, March 19.—The Lithuanian government and parliament bowed grimly today to an ultimatum backed by the might of Poland's army and navy, and saved herself from invasion and Europe from another war.

The Lithuanian minister at Tallinn, Estonia, delivered to Poland minister there a note fully accepting Poland's demands for re-establishment of diplomatic relations, broken since Poland seized the ancient Lithuanian capital, Wilno, Oct. 9, 1920.

The Polish minister in reply confirmed the resumption of such relations.

Lithuania's Seimas (parliament) accepted the government's decision to yield, it was announced, in the face of the threat of Polish invasion and the general international situation.

Jokubas Stalinauskis, minister of communications, thanked envoys of the great powers for their help and advice during the crisis.

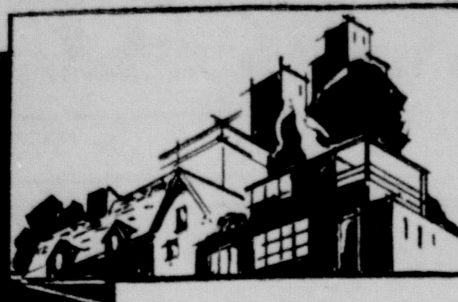

At the time Lithuania capitulated it was estimated 100,000 Polish troops were massed along her border—five times as many as the whole Lithuanian army.

Also there were reports that the Polish fleet had put out from Gdynia and was steaming toward Lithuania's coast.

There were predictions of changes in the Lithuanian cabinet as a result of this week's developments.

Modern Lighting Renders Possible Harmony of Tone and Color in Home

Modernizing one's home does not necessarily mean a major building operation on the entire house. It may mean taking any one of the accessories in your home and replacing them with modern, up-to-date and new fittings.

Such an appurtenance to a home is the lighting which becomes outmoded and obsolete just as do other accessories.

The keynote of the home design is harmony without which the utmost elaborate and expensive home and furnishings are unattractive. Period houses take on definite architectural forms, be it colonial, English, or what not, must be in harmony with the period or design of the house.

Lighting fixtures are a very important detail in this harmony, especially in a colonial house, and so you will find here illustrated several interesting and authentic designs for lighting fixtures in that style.

Exterior Lanterns

First come the lanterns on the porch. Copper, amber, cracked glass and verdigris are some of the common materials and finishes. In choosing these lanterns one has the opportunity to impart a distinctive note, various shades of feeling— austerity, coldness, dignity, welcome, warmth or invitation—all reflected in the exterior lighting.

Copper will not rust. Amber glass throws a mellow light.

Lanterns can be used effectively at side entrances, especially where there is a side driveway. They may be used in front of the garage. Pedestal lanterns adorn certain types of porches and front steps.

Of the exterior lanterns shown, No. 2, No. 4, No. 5, No. 6, No. 7 and No. 8 are best adapted for the early American or Dutch colonial home and in some cases a similar type of lantern may be used in the inside.

The Hall and Vestibule

Entering vestibule or hall, it is nice to find a friendly light. Cylindrical glass lanterns and adaptations of old-fashioned swinging lamps give the proper touch. A soft light is what is wanted. Flameless lamps are often helpful.

Lanterns No. 9 and No. 10 are fine examples and very appropriate for halls, vestibules and the center fixtures of small rooms. They are dignified fixtures and are particularly types of porches and front steps.

The Dining Room

The dining room lighting must be ample on the table. Watch out for glare. A lighting fixture that throws a gentle light which just spreads over the table top will be found restful to the eyes. The ceiling fixtures of the candelabra type are suitable for a colonial house.

Kitchen Lighting

The kitchen is a work center. Lighting there must be adequate without glare and so arranged that every nook and corner receives plenty of illumination. General illumination for the average kitchen requires a central ceiling unit with at least a 100-watt bulb. Over the sink a drop light or a bracket will give good local working light.

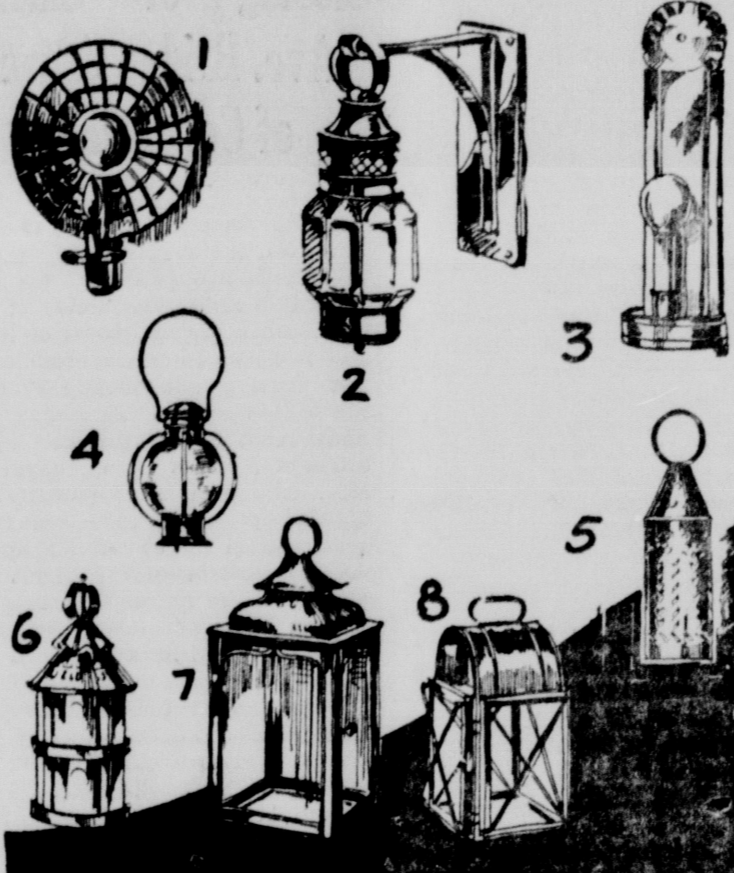

The light should be mounted almost directly above the front edge of the sink and about six feet from the floor. Here you will need plenty of convenience outlets; one for an electric fan, one for the percolator, one for the electric iron, one for a grill, mixing equipment, etc. Electric dishwashers and other electrical devices will soon be looked upon as necessities and they will need outlets.

Colors for Bedrooms

How do we want to light the bedrooms? The ceiling units and the wall brackets should be, first of all, dainty. Colors are effective. Bed lamps are important, so are portable lamps and convenience outlets which should be provided near the beds.

The Bath

The bath should have a ceiling unit and two wall brackets mounted on either side of the mirror above the wash stand, placed about early fitting for a southern colonial house.

No one wants to be annoyed by over-bright light. Lamp bulbs employing some sort of shades, glass, silk, mica or parchment may be used. Wall brackets to match the ceiling piece may be used.

Mounted about five and one-half feet from the floor. Speaking generally, one wall bracket for each 10 lineal feet of wall is good practice.

Brackets No. 1 and No. 3 are suitable for an early American house. While brackets No. 11 and No. 12 are good for rooms in more dignified colonial houses.

Floor Lamps

There can hardly be too many floor lamps in a living room. Plenty of convenience outlets in the baseboard is essential. A double convenience outlet every 10 feet is desirable.

The Dining Room

The dining room lighting must be ample on the table. Watch out for glare. A lighting fixture that throws a gentle light which just spreads over the table top will be found restful to the eyes. The ceiling fixtures of the candelabra type are suitable for a colonial house.

PAINT WILL REJUVENATE DRAB HOMES

Nothing so cheers the sagging spirits of either one's self or one's guests as bright, new paint for the outside and interior of the house. Many an old, out-dated home has been completely rejuvenated by the simple expedient of removing some of the gewgaws and gingerbread work on the outside of the house, then re-painting, and using a completely different color scheme from that which the house formerly wore.

Use good white lead and oil paint. It not only improves the appearance but preserves the wood, as evidenced by the wood of the ancient Egyptian mummy cases which has not disintegrated where painted.

By changing the colors a pleasing result may be obtained. Here are a few color schemes:

For house walls that are gray or white, use dark blue or green for painting the trim.

For house walls that are yellow, use brown, blue or green when painting the trim.

House walls that are gray also look well if the trim is white.

Use brighter colors for the trimmings. They will fade somewhat and give a charming effect.

Get your background for foundation color right in the first place; then harmonize the trimming color.

DOES THE CHIMNEY DRAW

Does the chimney draw? If not it probably is because the chimney is not high enough. This can be easily remedied. Here are three methods.

Build above each corner of the chimney brick or stone piers as shown at A in the sketch. The piers should be about eight inches each way, by 12 to 14 inches high. Then cover with stone or a cement slab.

A very common way and a good-looking method is to purchase from a material dealer a terra cotta chimney pot of the proper size to fit the flue opening of the chimney, as shown at B in the sketch. Place the pot over the flue and cement around the base.

Another method is to build up a wall about four inches thick on all four sides of the chimney and cover with a slate, stone or cement slab as shown at C in the sketch, leaving two ends open.

Indians believed that as scalped man could never enter the Happy Hunting Ground, the red man's heaven. By scalping all his victims, he assured himself that these earthly enemies would not bother him later on.

Paintings in Water Colors on Exhibit At Mt. Morris Now

Mt. Morris, Ill., March 19.—Refreshing as the first green leaf of spring and enlivening as a tulip bed is the collection of paintings currently on view at the Kable Inn galleries here. It is a one-man show of water colors by Katherine Pearman of Rockford, wife of Dr. Arthur Pearman, and formerly president of the Rockford Art Association.

Mrs. Pearman has an exhibit as indigenous to the Illinois and Wisconsin countryside and rural community as are the paintings of Grant Wood, with whom she studied last summer, indigenous to Iowa. She contends that it is unnecessary to go far afield to find paintable subjects, and proves her faith convincingly in such attractive compositions as "Field People," where a splash of those familiar purplish-pink roadside daisies in the foreground lead the eye over a sweep of fields; and again, in "Tullock's Barn," lovely in its coloring. For all that Mrs. Pearman chooses the most unpretentious and commonplace of subjects, she achieves a remarkably decorative effect.

Several titles in her collection were changed after reading a volume of poems by Carl Sandburg, because she thought certain of his titles were so appropriate to certain of her paintings, as indeed they are. Witness: "Haze Gold"; "Green Pastures"; "The Time of Corn Tassels" and others.

Summer vacations in the Lake Superior region gave inspiration for "Land's End," "Lumberjacks on Strike," "The Stove," and "Cabins on the Lake." A trip through the South resulted in the delightfully atmospheric "Old Kentucky Home"; also "Tennessee Valley."

Mrs. Pearman paints in gouache, or opaque water color, which gives her paintings a substance and vigor admirably suited to her technique. There are about 30 paintings in this exhibition, and it is well worth viewing. The public is welcome at all hours.

Rev. Goodpasture To Be Speaker At Oxford Club

The Oxford club will meet with the young people of the Presbyterian church tomorrow evening at 6:30 P. M. The meeting will be held at the Methodist church.

An outstanding speaker, Rev. Goodpasture of Mendota will bring the message of the evening. He comes highly recommended both as a pastor and a speaker and the young people will have a real treat in store for them.

Miss Norma Dugosh will have charge of the devotions, and the Rev. Mr. Doran will introduce the speaker.

With the young people from both churches combining a large crowd will be on hand at 6:30.

The meeting will be out in time for the evening service at which Rev. Howard P. Buxton will deliver the sermon.

Young people who are not attending some other church are cordially invited to attend and take part in the service.

Community Music Festival Planned

At the fifth annual community musical festival to be sponsored by the Dixon Woman's club in the Dixon high school auditorium on Friday evening, May 20, the short cantata, "I Hear America Singing," will be given by a large mixed chorus of voices from several church choirs and chorals organizations of the city. All such organizations were urged to take part in this cantata and previous engagements kept some of these from responding and entering.

In response, the following have indicated their desire to take active part:

Church choirs—St. Paul's Lutheran, Presbyterian, Methodist, Grace Evangelical, Church of God, and St. Patrick's boy's choir. Wesleyan Men's choral club and Dixon Woman's club chorus. Rehearsals have begun in some of these organizations and the time and place for joint rehearsals will be announced at a later date.

Also taking part in the musical event are: the high school orchestra, high school girls' chorus, grade schools boys' chorus, boys' string quintet and a girl's accord trio.

Music lovers of Dixon and surrounding territory are asked to circle the date on the calendar and plan to attend this very worthwhile program, which is given solely for the community's enjoyment. Admission will be free.

DAVID BYERS OF SOUTH DIXON IS 90 ON SABBATH

South Dixon Man Tells Telegraph Reporter of His Views

Moderate exercise and temperate habits are clues to the reason why David Byers, father of Mrs. Fred Wade, South Dixon township, has lived to be ninety years of age.

When approached by a Telegraph reporter Mr. Byers was seated comfortably in his chair in the family dining room and remarked that the winters are not as severe as they used to be.

Severe or mild, Mr. Byers, who has made his home with the Wades since 1926, has not had a doctor or missed a meal in that length of time.

He was born in Lancaster county, Pennsylvania March 20, 1848 and went to Missouri fifty years ago to make his home. The family lived in Missouri five years and then moved to a farm near Sterling where Mr. Byers engaged in agriculture until the death of his wife July 23, 1914. He then moved to Dixon and in 1926 came to make his home with his daughter.

Nine children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Byers, five of whom are still living. They are John Byers of Washington, D. C.; Harry Byers of Marengo; Frank Byers of Grand Rapids, Minn.; Mrs. Hiram Eberly of Eldena, and Mrs. Fred Wade of South Dixon. Preceding these children in death were Elmer, Benjamin Franklin, Marie Elizabeth Byers, and Mrs. Richard Brierton.

Mr. Byers is patiently awaiting the advent of spring when he can get outside again to work in the garden and do chores. He smokes but abstains from liquor and doesn't chew tobacco.

"Young folks of today will never live to be ninety," he said. "They live too fast. The whole world is going too fast."

Mr. Byers was emphatic in his beliefs regarding the New Deal. "Roosevelt? He's no good!" was his quick response to inquiries about politics.

My Byers was a regular army soldier in the Civil War and served in Texas and other southern points.

Upon dismissing the interviewer after posing for a photograph, Mr. Byers cheerfully added, "Come back when I'm 100 and I'll let you snap me again."

AUTOMATIC MACHINERY AND LABOR

We quoted William O'Neill, president of the General Tire and Rubber company, in his remarks to the Advertising club of New York that crazy, wild politicians get their remarks on the front pages of newspapers, to the exclusion of news. It's too true because everything gives way to Washington these days, crackpot or no crackpot.

Beyond the interesting quotations taken from his address are some pertaining to automatic machinery and labor.

As an instance of erroneous and loose talking by a Washington politician, appointed to office, he cites a statement by the secretary of labor, saying:

"Secretary Perkins, of the department of labor, recently made the statement that automatic, labor-saving machinery was causing unemployment. Why, more than 50 percent of the people who are gainfully employed today have employment because of automatic machinery!"

"The number of persons unemployed today is just about equal to the number of women who went to work, following the World war."

"If it were not for automatic machinery, we would be paying from $5000 to $17,000 for a Ford car that can be bought today for $500. Automatic machinery has made it possible to put 55 pounds of rubber on popular priced motor cars today, while there was only five pounds, outside of the tires, on the cars of five years ago."

"Automatic machinery does not make fewer jobs; it makes more jobs. Some of them may be different jobs, but more jobs, nevertheless."

"Automatic machinery and labor-saving devices have put to work eight times as many persons as were originally employed in making and distributing the same articles, when they were built by the old-fashioned methods."

"America has more automatic machinery than all the rest of the world put together and, because of that fact, it is able to put more of its people to work than any other country."

"Our industry has been charged, in some quarters, with driving its employees. Why, there are not ten jobs in our plant that are harder than making beds! We are glad to pay our tire builders $1.40 an hour, because they earn it, but we have to pay our unskilled labor as high as $1 an hour."

"I want to repeat that if only the persons who are qualified to know what they are talking about, would be quoted on the first pages, all of us would be a great deal better off."

"Why are persons quoted who don't know anything about business and who never hired anyone? If you listen to them, you would think that the country is all through. Probably it is all through for them."

"They do plenty of harm. Of course, a politician can throw a monkey-wrench into a fine piece of machinery and do a great deal of damage."

"All of us and the country as well, would be a great deal better off if the newspapers would print the truths about business and economic conditions on their first pages and publish statements about business only by persons who are qualified to know what they are talking about."

But who wants facts from the general manager? What we want is more fireside chats by politicians.

PRESIDENTIAL SERIES OF STAMPS

In order to carry out a philatelic ambition, President Roosevelt and Postmaster General Farley have created four new denominations of stamps which will form part of the much-heralded presidential series, to be released for sale progressively, beginning in the near future.

Now and then, as the mail comes in, we shall expect to see a 4½-cent stamp bearing a portrait of President Monroe; an 18-cent stamp bearing a likeness of President Hayes, 35-cent denomination featuring William McKinley, and a 40-cent stamp graced with the likeness of Roosevelt I. These are to be the new denominations in the philatelic albums.

The remainder of the presidential series will be as follows: 1½-cent, Franklin; 1-cent, Washington; 1½-cent, Martha Washington; 2-cent, John Adams; 3-cent, Jefferson; 4-cent Madison; 5-cent, John Quincy Adams; 6-cent, Jackson; 7-cent, Van Buren; 8-cent, William H. Harrison; 9-cent, Tyler; 10-cent, Polk; 11-cent, Taylor; 12-cent, Fillmore; 13-cent, Pierce; 14-cent, Buchanan; 15-cent, Lincoln; 16-cent, Johnson; 17-cent, Grant; 19-cent, Garfield; 20-cent, Arthur; 25-cent, Cleveland; 30-cent, Benjamin Harrison; 50-cent, Taft; $1, Wilson; $2, Harding, and $5, Coolidge.

It will be seen that the order in which the presidents served is followed in the denominational order of the stamps, with the exception of President Cleveland, whose two elections were not consecutive, Harrison having served between the two Cleveland administrations. President Hoover, of course, is omitted, as is President Franklin D. Roosevelt on account of the custom of not depicting living men on United States stamps. Benjamin Franklin, the first postmaster general, has appeared on a low denomination of ordinary postage through custom.

Twelve of the faces to appear on the new series are those of presidents who never had been honored on stamps before. They are the Adamses, Van Buren, William Henry Harrison, Tyler, Polk, Fillmore, Pierce, Buchanan, Johnson, Arthur, and Coolidge.

The Roosevelt administration is outstripping preceding regimes in the number of special and commemorative stamps issued, but the situation is not confined to the United States. Nearly all countries are issuing more stamps of various designs than ever before.

Chapter Five

Sweet Enchantment
Judith's desire to speak of the absent one was too strong to be denied. "Have you seen him?"

"No, I was sure I'd find him here," said Dick Blout.

Judith examined the heel of her scuffed riding boot. "Gary seldom rushes anywhere."

"Since when?" A smile chased over Dick's fat face. "Unless my memory fails, he never goes anywhere at a sane or safe pace, and unless my ears are deceiving me, I hear this minute someone approaching at fireman's speed."

His teasing eyes met Judith's honest ones that had not learned to wear a mask. His smile vanished. So! That was how it was!

Little Judy, grown up and—in love. He sighed for his own lost youth.

"How old are you, Judy?"

"Twenty."

"Feeling feeble?"

"Not exactly."

"Then why don't you run to meet Gary?"

But she did not run to meet Gary. True, her spirit was catapulted somewhere in breathless, dizzy space but the physical Judith remained lazily calm in her basket chair while her heart ticked out:

"In another minute—I'll know—they'll all be watching like cats at a mouse hole—I mustn't give myself away—but I'll know—if he doesn't care—I can bear it!"

Gary's arrival was spectacular. He came dashing up the drive, on his splendid sorrel—bare-headed, broad shouldered, gloriously sure of his seat.

"Hail! Cheerio! Adsum!" The crop he waved might have been a conqueror's sword.

At his claxon call the little group under the trees stirred in unison, as a wheatfield is stirred by a breeze. Languor fell from it. Everyone except Amanda arose to greet the newcomer.

He came on, waving, not drawing rein until he was a scant three inches from the bowing, smiling Amos. Then flinging himself from the saddle, he crossed the little strip of grass at a bound and, for all the world to see, swept Judith into his embrace.

"Judy—bless my soul, I'm glad to see you!"

Recklessly he bent his handsome head and kissed her squarely upon her curving, red lips. "Are you glad to see me, Judy?"

"Too long!"

Had Judith been less glad to see him she might have found fault with the flavor of that kiss it was so frankly joyous, so completely a part of Gary's exuberance but caught in a great wave of ineffably sweet emotion, Judith was not critical.

"When," breathlessly, "did you come?"

"Hour ago. Couldn't wait to see you."

"It's been—a long time."

"Too long."

For the flash of a second they might have been alone in a newly created world, each discovering the miracle of the other. Garden, watching eyes, were for the time being non-existent.

"You're gorgeous, Judy!" The sure brightness of his smile.

"And you!" The almost tearful uncertainty of hers.

"I had forgotten how lovely—" His masculine arrogance.

"I've remembered—everything—" Her fluttered femininity.

The shining moment passed. Gary's arms around Judith loosened. He went forward and, with a graceful foreign gesture, kissed the thin hand of the old woman in the peacock chair.

"Glad to see me, Gran?" It was typical of Gary to want everyone to rejoice openly at his coming.

"You're sure of it, you scamp!" She had not wholly approved of his enthusiastic greeting of her granddaughter. "In my day," she reflected, "a man could kiss a girl without taking the whole world into his confidence. Now, nothing is sacred enough to keep secret."

But she smiled up into the good looking young face above her and admitted that his mouth was beautiful enough to make any girl's heart turn over.

"You're looking swell, Gran."

"I'll believe you because I want to, Gary."

Out of the whole world he was the mate she would have chosen for Judith. His shoulders were flat and straight beneath his English riding coat. His eyes were clear, with a sinful come-hither in them. Goodloe's and Brents had been friends through generations.

"Something To Tell You!" The others pressed forward.

"Lo, Gary! How's the merry-go-round?"

"On the up and up. It's grand to see you again!"

"Been pinning for us?"

"Believe it or not!"

Handshakes that were handshakes. Kisses light as thistledown and meaningless as yesterday's wilted flowers.

"Sit down," Amanda commanded. "Pull your chairs into the shade, everyone."

"We thought you'd be here for the Hunt Cup Race, Gary."

"I read of it with tears in my eyes!" At this moment Gary believed that, "London papers said it was the best ever."

"A nice race," Dick Blout admitted grudgingly, "Captain Kettle did it again."

"Any spills?"

"One slight. Just enough to make it typical."

Amanda sat up very straight. "How could it be a typical race with not a Maryland horse in it?" she asked accusingly.

A slight cloud settled on all their faces, an uneasiness that was almost guilt. Gary turned to Judith; "You hadn't an entry?"

"Nothing good enough."

If the admission hurt her, it was gall and wormwood to Amanda. She said: "We have a fair colt growing up."

Gary radiated confidence. "Next year I'll bring the cup home to you, Gran."

Remembering that he was Master of Hounds, Mr. Blout clapped his plump hands vigorously and called the chattering to attention, but not before Gary found time to whisper to Judith.

"Let's cut this as soon as we can. I have something to tell you."

Something to tell her! And his kiss still warm upon her lips! She need not have been afraid.

She nodded an almost imperceptible assent. Out of the world of girls he had come back to her. Hadn't she always known he would? Not even to herself would she admit that she had been uncertain.

It was too humiliating. (Copyright, 1938, Blanche Smith Ferguson)

"The keenest anguish known to human nature is the pain of a new idea." (Bagehot). We hope this column brings you pain.

Answer to Question No. 1—

1. Strange to say easy dislocation of the hip is sometimes inherited in families and—as Popenoe shows in "The Child's Heredity"—it is six times as common in women as in men. It is due to faulty development either of the hip bone or its socket, or of the pelvic bones. Since these bones do not fit as tightly in women as in men, more girl babies are born with this tendency than boy babies. With such women any slight strain will throw the hip bone out of its socket.

Answer to Question No. 2—

2. So one writer argues in a scientific journal. He thinks the prettiest girls are picked off by the local male talent as wives and the ones not so attractive go to the city ostensibly to find a job, but in reality to find a husband. However, this has two sides to it. Since pretty girls are, on the average, more intelligent than the homely ones—with hosts of exceptions—possibly the pretty, intelligent girls think they can do better than accept a home town boy and are the ones most likely to go cityward.

Answer to Question No. 3—

3. In the remarkable book, "The Professional Thief," by Chic Conwell—lifelong pickpocket and shop-lifter—written on a salary from the University of Chicago, he maintains the code of thieves is even higher than that of the public. He has never heard of a thief padding an expense account and points out that while often thieves throw away pocketbooks to avoid capture, this money is rarely turned over to the police. STATE CROWN TILT TONIGHT AT ILLINOIS

Von Steuben, Paris, Dundee, Braidwood In Semi-Finals

Champaign, Ill., March 19.—(AP)—The most coveted prep basketball honor of the year, the state title, beckoned four crack basketball teams today as the 31st annual Illinois state high school tournament went into the semi-final round at the University of Illinois.

The teams still in the running were Von Steuben of Chicago, Braidwood, Paris and Dundee, with the Dundee aggregation a "hot" championship favorite as the result of its 38 to 26 decision over Harrisburg in the final game of last night's program.

Dundee was paired this afternoon with Paris, which downed Carbondale in two overtime periods, 24 to 22. Von Steuben, which defeated Johnston City, 29 to 27, in another surprise showing, was matched with the strong Braidwood quintet, victors over Galesburg, 35 to 30. The title game will be played tonight.

Blanken, Weisker Star
Don Blanken of Dundee and Bernard Weisker of Von Steuben shared honors for the outstanding individual performances of yesterday's program, witnessed by capacity throngs. Blanken, excelling at one-hand hook shots, annexed 17 points against Harrisburg. Weisker kept his team in the tournament by scoring eight points in the last minute and one-half of play against Johnston City and now leads the scorers with 32 points in four games. Blanken has scored 26 points, with William Hocking of Braidwood third at 22.

Dundee, which will be in action in the second game of the afternoon, now has won 32 straight games this season. The team lost its opener to York and has not been defeated since. Braidwood was favored to whip Von Steuben and should Braidwood reach the finals the team will have plenty of support, being the second smallest school represented in the finals, with an enrollment of 96 students.

Illinois Colleges To Cooperate With Job-Finding Agency

Wheaton, Ill., March 19.—(AP)—Co-operation with the University and College Exchange in Chicago, a non-profit job-finding agency for college graduates, was voted by the Federation of Illinois Colleges last night after President Carter Davidson of Knox College, Galesburg, had described unemployed graduates as "forgotten" men.

Dr. Davidson told the federation that the exchange not only helped find work for the unemployed, but assisted those employed in wrong fields to find more suitable jobs.

The progressive education movement was praised in a speech by Carlson Washburn, superintendent of the Winnetka schools. He said the movement develops a feeling of responsibility and social consciousness for the student.

Dr. Conrad Bergendoff, president of Augustana college at Rock Island, was elected president of the federation.

Sues to Replevin $50,000 in Ransom

Chicago, March 19.—(AP)—Two suits by Mrs. Mae Ross for recovery of $50,000 paid as ransom for her kidnapped husband, Charles S. Ross, and for $10,000 damages from John Henry Seadlund, condemned to die for the kidnap-slashing of Ross, were on file in federal court today.

The $50,000 suit is a replevin action against Seadlund and Daniel M. Ladd, chief of the Chicago office of the federal bureau of investigation. More than $47,000 of the ransom money was recovered by federal agents and held for evidence in a trial that resulted in a verdict of death for Seadlund.

In the other suit Mrs. Ross asks $10,000 as compensation for the "wrongful death" of her husband.

230 RE-EMPLOYED

Ottawa, Ill.—(AP)—Re-employment of 230 persons at the Ottawa plant of the Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Company which suspended operation on December 22 was announced by officials of the company. The employees will be put to work in the grinding and polishing department and the warehouse. Nineteen hundred persons were on the payroll when the plant closed.

Denver Safeways Face Kansas City Healeys In Final

Denver, March 19.—(AP)—The Denver Safeways, seeking their second consecutive crown, face the stern challenge of the Kansas City, Kan., Healeys in the national A. A. U. basketball tournament finals tonight.

The expected rerun of the 1937 finals failed to materialize, due to a 45 to 39 defeat which befell the Bartlesville, Okla., Phillips last night. The Healeys, the winners, rate at least an even chance against the home town prides.

The Safeways turned in their expected victory over the Wichita, Kan., Gridleys in the semi-finals, 45 to 34.

400 Track Athletes Enter Armour Tech Relays In Chicago

Chicago, March 19.—(AP)—The tenth annual Armour Tech relays drew more than 400 track athletes from 34 colleges and universities to the University of Chicago field house today.

The mile run was expected to be one of the features, with Wisconsin's long-striding Charles (Chuck) Fenske rated a chance of breaking the meet record of 4 minutes 14.1 seconds, established by Indiana's Henry Brocksmith in 1932.

It is estimated that 200,000 persons in Canton, China, live on boats, some of them rarely touching foot to the ground.

Bits of Gossip of Sports Picked Up By AP Writer

By EDDIE BRIETZ

New York, March 19.—(AP)—Fresh from the coast: Joe DiMaggio will sign for $25,000 any hour now and we don't mean days. Mike Jacobs really hopes those "scrambled" conditions in Germany will prevent Max Schmelling from coming over to fight Joe Louis (a) because Mike is afraid Max will put Joe to sleep (thus ruining a perfectly good meal ticket) and (b) because an anti-Nazi boycott might make a sizeable dent in what otherwise shapes up as a million dollar game. Personally, Mike would prefer to see Maxie Baer in there. Dick Harlow of Havahd will be guest speaker at the U. of Wisconsin's first football clinic, May 6-7.

Four More Teams Enter Catholic National Meet

Chicago, March 19.—(AP)—Four more teams have accepted invitations to compete in the 15th annual Catholic basketball tournament which will open Wednesday night at Loyola University.

The teams which accepted bids yesterday, and brought to 24 the total number entered, were Marquette university high of Milwaukee; Central Catholic of Fort Wayne, Ind.; St. Veronica of Ambrose, Pa.; and St. Frances of Morgantown, W. Va. The remaining eight places are expected to be filled by Sunday.

The other teams entered included: St. Bede's Academy, Peru, Ill., and St. Ambrose, Davenport, Ia.

68 Natators Enter Illinois College Conference Meet

Naperville, Ill., March 19.—(AP)—A field of 68 natators, led by four record holders, took over North Central college's pool today for the first annual Illinois conference swimming meet.

Nine conference schools were represented. They were Illinois College, North Central, Wheaton, Augustana, Bradley Tech, Illinois Wesleyan, Knox, James Millikin University and Monmouth.

Illinois college, with individual champions in the 100-yard breaststroke, 220-yard freestyle and 100-yard freestyle, was favored to capture its fourth consecutive team championship.

Maroons Retain Central A. A. U. Track Laurels

Chicago, March 19.—(AP)—The University of Chicago retained its central A. A. U. track title last night by scoring 31½ points at the Chicago field house. Illinois was second with 23 points.

Dick Brunton of Illinois took a tenth of a second off the 70-yard high hurdle meet record, stepping the distance in 8.7 seconds. The old mark was set by Waldo Ames of the Chicago A. A. in 1921.

MUST BE CITIZENS

Chicago.—(AP)—President Alexander J. McKay of the board of election commissioners said 150,000 persons registered to vote in Cook county would be questioned for their citizenship. He estimated 7,500 names would be removed from the files until the owners establish their citizenship.

Caught His Own Punt

These two huskies are visible reminders of the fact that Dixon high school's gridiron glories are not confined to the present. They are left, Frank Edwards, successful poultry farmer of Dixon township, and right, Tom Reynolds, now connected with a Pacific northwest fruit company in Portland, Ore. A scant thirty-eight years ago they donned these gladiatorial togs for Southside high school of this city, now South Central grade school, and became members of Dixon's "wonder team" of 1900.

Reynolds is the son of a brother of Horace G. Reynolds, founder of the Reynolds Wire Co. here. Together with Frank Edwards, Edgar Crawford, John Davies, and other football notables of 1900 they led Southside to victory over all the neighboring communities including Rockford, Freeport, and other schools, large and small.

One of the miracles performed by one of these men on this "wonder team" was a sensational left-footed punt by Edwards which he is said to have caught himself and ran for a touchdown in one of Southside's most important games. The photograph was furnished The Telegraph by Drake University which at that time was interested in these two sensational athletes.

San Antonio, Tex.—Gabby Street, pilot of the St. Louis Browns, is ready to do some heavy banking upon Red Kress, veteran infielder. Kress signed his contract yesterday and a few hours later pounded out a homer and single in the first of three exhibitions against the Tulsa Oilers of the Texas league. The score was 10 to 7.

Lakeland, Fla.—Willie Rogell of the Detroit Tigers, observing that every season some shortstop goes on a hitting spree, says he has a hunch it will be his turn this year.

Los Angeles.—The Chicago Cubs, conquerors of their city rivals, the White Sox, in their first exhibition of the year, turned today to a close relation, the Los Angeles farm team, for opposition. The Cubs made only five hits yesterday off the Sox, but homers by Ke O'Dea and Billy Herman brought a 5-1 win.

San Bernardino, Calif.—The Pirates used 19 players and they made more errors than runs in losing their opening exhibition game here yesterday with Los Angeles Angels of the Pacific Coast league. The score was 10 to 7.

Mount Morris Doings

Mrs. Pauline Yoe, Reporter

Mr. Morris—It is hard to say whether a round of parties eases the parting or makes it more difficult. At any rate the Rev. and Mrs. N. E. Bollinger have been guests at a number of parties during the past week. On Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Harold Florea gave a small dinner in their honor. A green color scheme decorated the table at which the guests were seated. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Sawyer, Mr. and Mrs. Rolfe Martin, Mrs. Anna Mumma, Mrs. Josie Ray and the Bollingers. The evening hours were spent in pleasant conversation. Last Thursday evening the members of the grade school board, of which Rev. Bollinger is president, enjoyed a dinner together with their wives and the grade school faculty. Green tapers and colorful snapdragons centered the tables at which the guests were seated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Johnston. Present were the Messrs. and Mesdames Dallas Parker, Harold Ross, Jess Allen, Cal Wright, Otto Hudson, Merle Hawbecker and Harold Patterson, also Mrs. Ross Stouffer and the Messrs. The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND off his coat and went to bat for the President. Wallace, jittery over his puny presidential hopes; Mor-genthau, Roper, Perkins, Woodring, all were silent or non-committal. Even Cummings, who had a hand in framing the scheme to add six new judges, ducked for cover when the fighting got tough.

It would have been easy for Jim to do the same. As Postmaster General he easily could have claimed that he knew nothing about the Supreme Court and laid low. And with most of Democratic State chairmen and national committeemen opposed to the judicial program, it would have been excusable for him to keep out of the fight.

But he didn't. Jim honestly believed in the proposal and rolled up his sleeves and waded in. While most of his Cabinet colleagues sat unmoved while Roosevelt took the mauling of his life, Jim stumped the country in defense of his "chief."

The second battle was the New York majority race.

It was widely, and accurately, believed that the President favored the re-election of LaGuardia. But Jim endorsed Judge Mahoney.
Roosevelt and Farley also were very vigorously opposed to Senator Copeland, and in the primary Jim blasted Copeland and worked hard to nominate Mahoney.

In this Jim was pursuing sound political strategy. He knew very well that Mahoney had no chance of beating LaGuardia. In fact, on one occasion he bluntly said so to Mahoney's managers. But he also knew that Mahoney's defeat, topping Copeland's sound trouncing, would write final on the Tammany leadership which for four years had fought and obstructed the New Deal.

Hence, by remaining regular and supporting the party candidate,
Jim was putting himself in an impregnable position to lead the fight in Tammany Hall to houseclean
the Wigwam and install friendly leaders.

The two episodes illustrate Jim's new differentiation between principle and strategy. In the Supreme Court fight he brushed aside personal considerations and took up the cudgels for a cause he believed was in the public interest. In the mayorality scrap, for reasons of strategy, he unhesitatingly played machine politics.

Governor of New York

Jim loves politics. Fifty years old and in perfect health, he would rather play politics than eat—and he loves to eat. But since the 1936 campaign, Jim has been torn between his grand passion and the necessity of making money.
His wife, who hates politics, has been after him to do this, and late last summer it looked as if he would resign to head the Pierce Arrow Motor Company when the market crash torpedoed everything.

This was a severe blow. Five years in Washington had run Farley heavily into debt. Much as he wanted to stay in public life, it now looked more certain than ever that he would have to retire and put his Irish blarney to work for a living rather than for politics.
Then, recently, Jim had a heaven-sent windfall. He sold some of his memoirs for a large sum—sufficient to take him out of the red and permit

Give Suggestions For Flood Control

Pittsburgh, March 19—(AP)—Army engineers have disclosed these voluntary suggestions from ardent flood control advocates. Evaporating surplus water with electrically-heated wires strung across swollen rivers.

Digging trenches paralleling the Ohio river from Pittsburgh to Cairo, Ill., to care for the overflow.

Digging 100 holes 10 inches in diameter and 10,000 feet deep to drain off flood waters.

"Sinking" outmoded destroyers of the U. S. navy at the headwaters of rivers to serve as dams.

DO YOU KNOW—

That medical science is constantly at work striving to discover the causes and the cures of disease? New instruments are made, tried out, and perhaps discarded. Experiments are made with new drugs and when their value is assured are used in the treatment of certain conditions. Continued progress will be made as long as individual achievement is preserved. State control of medicine would interfere with these endeavors. Scientific work undertaken in the United States surpasses that in countries now having state medicine. There are many health problems yet to be solved. The world looks to the free American scientist to solve them.

The above statements have been approved by the Educational Committee of the Illinois State Medical Society.

Brain Twizzlers

By PROF. J. D. FLINT

Four families who were residents of a very fashionable suburb of a large city had their homes at the four corners of a fairly large section of land. During the winter months they had a pond in the center of the area frozen over for ice skating, ice hockey and other winter sports.

The time came when it was found necessary to sell some of the property because of economic pressure and four lots were sold in the area between the pond and the homes of the original four families. The buyers of the lots were not so wealthy and built much less pretentious homes on their property. They also made very free use of the winter sports facilities and their children were so numerous and spent so much time on the pond that the children of the original families were rather shut out. As a result the heads of the four original families became very irate over the whole thing and went into conference to decide what course of action to take. After due deliberation they decided to fence off the pond in such a manner that the other families couldn't use it. This presented a difficult problem in design but finally they made arrangements and erected the fence which effectively served their purpose. Can you draw a fence line that would accomplish this?

MEXICO TAKES OVER FOREIGN OIL COMPANIES

$400,000,000 Worth of Property Involved in Seizure

Mexico City, March 19—(AP)—President Lazaro Cardenas expropriated American and British oil properties valued at more than $400,000,000 today in a bold stroke designed to end a two-year conflict between labor and foreign capital. Simultaneously, the Central Bank of Mexico suspended dealings in foreign currency and the president indicated devaluation of the peso was under official consideration.

Operations were suspended in the oil industry at one minute after midnight last night as union oil workers, going ahead with a threatened "folded arms strike", forced a shutdown.

A bulletin from the press bureau early today said the Mexican cabinet had decided upon "means to prevent damage to the financial activities of the country." These included provisional operation of the petroleum industry by the department of national economy and the general petroleum administration.

Another step was representations by the government to all labor unions urging them to refrain from strikes and public manifestations.

"Sordid Campaign" Cardenas, broadcasting an explanation of his act, said the foreign oil companies had carried on a "sordid and skillful campaign" against the government, which "has had result that these same companies sought—to injure seriously the economic interests of the nation, attempting by this means to nullify the legal dispositions dictated by the Mexican authorities."

The companies, he charged, had defied the courts of the land in refusing to accept an arbitral verdict of the Federal labor board handed down December 18, increasing their labor costs by approximately $7,200,000 yearly and giving the workers other benefits.

There was no announcement as to how much indemnity the companies would be paid for their expropriated property.

The Bank of Mexico's "suspension of operations in gold, dollars and foreign exchange," to be resumed "as soon as it (the bank) judges opportune," was interpreted by a bank official as presaging depreciation of the currency.
